

The National Women's Council of Ireland's are running a campaign to change the way pensions work.

A pension is payment made to people over the age of retirement.

Women are less likely than men to qualify for a full pension.

Women are less likely than men to have a pension from their job.

Some women had to leave work when they got married and might not qualify for a full pension.

Some women spend time caring for children or other family members and might not qualify for a full pension.

Some women work on a family farm or in a family business and might not qualify for a full pension.

We need you to help us make change!

This easy to read poster was prepared by Inclusion Ireland and proof-read by experts through experience.

For more information contact National Women's Council of Ireland, 100 North King Street, Smithfield, Dublin 7 email us at reception@nwci.ie or phone us on 01 679 0100 or download our booklet from www.nwci.ie